So far, the best way I've found to do this is: `SELECT * FROM `users` WHERE `username` = 'xyz' OR `username` = 'xyz2'`; Is there any way to do this in one go instead of having to filter by xyz first and then by xyz2 (or vice versa)? A: In MySQL you can just use an IN clause: `SELECT * FROM `users` WHERE `username` IN ('xyz','xyz2')`; As a wrapping method for wrapping an article to be wrapped by a wrapper film, there is known a film wrapping method in which a container is conveyed while the article to be wrapped is being wrapped by a wrapper film (for example, refer to Patent Document 1). In this wrapping method, a container that holds a plurality of sheets of paper that are formed in one unit is conveyed to a wrapping station. The wrapping station wraps the article to be wrapped by a wrapper film and is configured such that the wrapper film is drawn from the container, wrapped around the article to be wrapped, and joined to a leading end of the paper that constitutes the paper sheets in the container. In this wrapping station, a container that holds a plurality of cut sheet-like wrappers is disposed, and the wrapper film is drawn from the container to be wrapped around the article to be wrapped 82157476af
